As we prepare to head into the summer, it is my pleasure to share this preview of the summer 2016 edition of NY NOW®. This is the only market in our industry located in the design and commerce capital of the world, and it offers opportunities no other show can, including:

- An unparalleled buying experience, where you will see top-line, trend-driven merchandise with a timeless aesthetic
- The chance to network with the largest gathering of trend-setters, media, and fellow industry professionals who are serious about design and doing business
- A higher concentration of owners and principals of exhibiting companies — 30 percent of whom exhibit only at NY NOW — than at any other U.S. trade event

We continue to hear nothing but good things from attendees and exhibitors alike about the number 7 train and how easy it makes getting around the city. The beautiful Hudson Yards station at 34th Street and 11th Avenue is just a stone's throw from the Javits Center. There is no more convenient way to get to Midtown Manhattan and the rest of New York City. There are also now more than a dozen hotels within walking distance of the Javits, several of which are part of our hotel block.

We're looking forward to seeing you in August! Get ready, and let me or my colleagues know if we can do anything to improve your experience.

Designed To Change Lives

Anna Rabinowicz, founder of Anna New York by RabLabs, is no typical designer; with a background in designing prosthetics and cardiac surgery devices, she finds beauty where technology and biology intersect. Her first home collection launched in 2002 and featured a fusion of ancient, precious materials with cutting-edge design. Her designs are continually inspired by nature. “Whether it’s the materials I come across or the shapes found all around us, I’m motivated by elevating nature through design and technology to produce unexpected results,” says

Rabinowicz. “My hope is that people will be moved by these pieces and will feel the emotion behind the designs when they hold them in their hands. We have a chance to really enhance and positively change people’s lives, creating ways for them to build memories and to create unique experiences. Nothing could be more inspirational than that.”

Environmentally Inspired

Her first creations—geode coasters in vibrant Brazilian agate—remain best sellers. “They’re the essence of the brand: taking a natural material like agate or crystal and finding a way to manipulate it into something equal parts extraordinary and usable.” Rabinowicz’s design palette is a rich kaleidoscope of organic hues- alabaster, rose quartz, malachite- and her products often reflect shapes inherent to the natural world- the intricate mesh of a sea fan rendered within a metal photo frame, the cross-section of a gem suspended in Lucite. There is something both timeless and very of-the-moment about Anna New York by RabLabs, and that’s intentional. Anna describes her pieces as “modern-day heirlooms, made with the sort of attention and care to ensure that they will live in our customers’ and clients’ homes for decades to come.”

Classic Glamour with a Modern Edge

Anna New York by RabLabs is a frequent NY NOW exhibitor. “Out of all the tradeshows we do, all over the world, New York is special... we get to see old friends alongside meeting new acquaintances. There’s something about seeing the look on someone’s face when they see our new designs - that recognition of the brand and excitement over seeing something new and beautiful is why we love participating in NY NOW year after year.” At the 2016 summer show, she’ll introduce a new collection that recalls elegant bygone days. “[This collection] evokes days and nights of glamour, when serving a drink properly was de rigueur. To visually create that feeling with a modern twist, I explored gleaming metal surfaces, accented with glowing gemstones. I hope that when you experience our designs for this season, you’ll feel the thrill of recognition - a feeling of the charm of past days, enhanced by modern design.”

Materialism, Redefined

CHEN CHEN &
KAI WILLIAMS

A stark marble bookend mirroring the crisp corner of a page. A minimalist bangle unexpectedly crafted in speckled stone. Chen Chen & Kai Williams began in 2011 as the brainchild of two Pratt grads similarly fascinated by design at its most elemental- ideas interacting with materials. The result? Unique pieces that play upon or within their surroundings. As Chen puts it, “We have a very bottom up approach to design. We prefer to play with materials that interest us and find an application for it rather than think of the idea and try to figure out how to make it. This is the reason there is such a wide variety of materials used across our offering.”

Industrial Meets Surreal

Back in 2011, the designers worked separate day jobs—Williams helmed his own fabrication company; Chen did displays at the now-closed design store Moss. “We decided to try making our own products and thought of it more as a collaboration than as starting a new company (hence the name).” Considered pioneers in the now-thriving Brooklyn design scene, they quickly made their mark by dreaming up fresh takes on everyday objects, like their Cold Cut Coasters, created from an unexpected amalgam of materials, then sliced (a la deli meat) into one-of-a-kind drink coasters. Both are trained in industrial design, and their work represents a unique alchemy between industrial process and imagination. Take their Third Eye Vessel, as Chen describes it: “a simple three-sided box that is turned on its end to create an unusual shape. When books and other objects are placed inside, they automatically align by gravity at right angles. When you look down into it, there’s a feeling of disorientation since you have no idea which side is up or down. It’s at the same time functional and surreal.”

Familiar Favorites with a Now Factor

At previous NY NOW markets, Chen Chen & Kai Williams saw a lot of success with their Stone Fruit Planters line “because the shapes come from nature and we’re hardwired to love them. They make great gifts because you can personalize them with a plant and are infinitely collectible.” They plan to expand product lines introduced at the winter market even further for this summer’s NY NOW- adding a different shape to the family of cast iron Mound candleholders, and introducing Bank Pens “inspired by the pens you see at deposit counters; each pen will be packed with a pinch of shredded money from the US Treasury.”

“If You Can’t Get It Anywhere Else, Try Bigelow”

Step into living history at C.O. Bigelow, America’s oldest apothecary—open since 1838, operating in its current Greenwich Village location since 1902. Browse beneath resplendent Gothic chandeliers to find that elusive Tocca perfume you haven’t seen elsewhere alongside staple brands, like Nivea, you’ve trusted for years. C.O. Bigelow’s own line is prominently featured—affordable, beautifully packaged, and crafted from original centuries-old recipes. The shop is one of New York City’s quirkiest landmarks—drawing legendarily diverse clientele ranging from Eleanor Roosevelt to John Belushi to the Olsen twins. It’s famous for being home to everyday drugstore stock bolstered by a host of hard-to-find potions and beauty staples, as well as another relatively uncommon quality: good old-fashioned personal attention. “The aspirin in the shop is still behind the counter. It’s all about the service and again going the extra mile and understanding our customers. Some of our staff have been here with us for decades.” You may also spy the shop’s cat, Allegra- named after the allergy medicine, a nod to owner Ian Ginsberg’s cat allergy.

A Prescription for Lasting Success

Ginsberg, C.O. Bigelow’s third generation owner, has been with the company since 1985. With an uncanny knack for staying ahead of the consumer trend line, he initially steered the store in an experience-oriented direction. Under Ginsberg’s guidance, C.O. Bigelow focused on overseas products and unparalleled customer service, carving out a niche as a community gathering place and resource. Most recently, Ginsberg and Bath and Body Works collaborated to develop a unique range of skin care products for the face and body- the C.O. Bigelow Apothecary Personal Care Collection, utilizing key apothecary ingredients, like the Apothecary Rose, renowned worldwide for its skin healing benefits. Many of the products are true to the original formularies; some are named after the doctors who created them or for the patients for whom they were created.

Everything Old is New Again

Dependable time-tested formulas tend to become C.O. Bigelow customer favorites- Marvis toothpaste from Italy, Turkish Gülsha rose water. An exhibitor at NY NOW for five years straight, at this year’s summer market, C.O. Bigelow will unveil an old customer favorite- Proraso- in brand-new packaging. Despite snazzy new labels, expect the same reliable formulas that make Proraso an Italian barbershop staple. “Proraso was founded in Florence, Italy more than eighty years ago. Proraso transforms shaving into a pleasurable experience with unique products made in the Martelli family time-honored tradition.” C.O. Bigelow has perfected its own rare formula of holding on to what’s tried and true while always evolving to stay fresh and relevant. “We love brands that have stood the test of time and multi-generational family owned companies like ourselves. The brands we distribute are all family-owned and have been around for decades.”

Threading the Needle

Plenty of small business stories begin with a man in his basement, tinkering around on a machine. But rare is the story of a man whose machine is of the vintage sewing variety. When Chris Hughes lost his startup job in 2009, he scored a vintage industrial sewing machine off of Craigslist and began crafting durable, fashionable canvas and leather goods. Hughes spent days working “a placeholder job” and nights and weekends in his Omaha basement, building the foundation for what would become Artifact Bag Co. in 2010. Artifact, the realization of his dream to design, make, market and sell products of his own, also signified a large-scale cultural shift. “[In 2010] there was a lot of discontent and handmade was one of many symbols of hope because it represented something earnest.”

ARTIFACT BAG CO.
AMERICAN HANDMADE

Materials Matter

Hughes mastered traditional craftsmanship alongside modern media savvy to take his business to the next level, landing mentions everywhere from Rolling Stone to Gizmodo for products that achieved a perfect ratio of utility and elegance. Hughes finds his inspiration everywhere: “Beautiful things. Well-designed objects. My wife and children. Music. Brilliant people.” But his line- including lunch totes fashioned from waxed canvas and Horween leather and twill field bags accented by brass, among other products- is classic, subtly echoing the past. “My inspiration is always practical and utilitarian. I love vintage military, but clean lines and less bulk. I love natural materials.”

Form, Fashion, and Function- Guaranteed for Life

Artifact Bag Co. is a frequent NY NOW exhibitor. “I’ve been doing NY NOW for 3 years now and I love it,” says Hughes. “This show enables me to connect with all levels of retailers, and people in the industry.” For the summer market, attendees can expect more home goods, including a collapsible campaign table, pillows in leather, linen, and waxed cotton, and leather coasters. Artifact will also bring an expanded carry goods line perfect for any season- wine carriers, huge boat totes, rucksacks, and simple wallets. Artifact Bag Co. offers a lifetime guarantee- Hughes stands behind his materials and craftsmanship. And though his best-selling products are sartorial workhorses, every piece features details that elevate them to another level. “People love my Campus Tote because it is so functional for everyday carry and it is a good price. My aprons are also popular because I put a lot of time into working through the ergonomics and design. They look great on everyone and they do what they are intended to do.”

ARTISAN RESOURCE SPOTLIGHT:

Artisanal Craft, Handed Across Generations

In Mexico's ancient Nahuatl language, the word 'makaua' has two meanings: "from hand to hand" or the act of "giving a hand."

The company Makaua truly lives up to its name, providing a steady income for the native artisans who fashion each Makaua product by hand out of natural palm, using traditional braiding and dying techniques that have evolved over many generations.

Makaua was founded in 2000 by Beatriz Carregha, then a stay-at-home mother of three girls, Lorena, Andrea, and Paola. Paola remembers what ultimately inspired the company: "She had just come out of a cancer treatment and was so thankful for this second chance at life that she went looking for a way to make a difference. She found her calling in the mountains of Southern Mexico, where she met a community of artisans who make handmade palm products. We have been working together ever since."

Naturally Beautiful

Clean lines, rich colors, and intriguing textures are the hallmark qualities defining Makaua's gorgeous baskets, placemats and hampers—qualities that reflect the diverse landscape where the company was born and raised. "Mexico has a very wide range of cultures, monuments, jungles and forests, traditions, people, and many other things that are what we look at when we are trying to find inspiration for each collection." New colors and shapes are introduced with the seasons; the names of these collections are sparked by their surroundings. Xochimilco, meaning "field of flowers" is a family of baskets in a rainbow of floral hues—Rosita, Amarillo, Sandia. A story is woven into every Makaua product.

All In One Basket

Since attending NY NOW for the first time in the spring of 2012, the Makaua team has enjoyed meeting friends, clients, and industry contacts at the show. At this year's market, adding to bestsellers like conical baskets and tall floor baskets, Makaua will introduce a line of products perfect for holiday gift-giving or seasonal storage.

Simple beauty. True stories. The symbiosis between nature, culture and tradition. Connecting people across borders and around the world. These are the values behind Makaua. As the company has grown over the years, it has provided the opportunity of a dignified income for over 500 artisans and their families. As Paola explains it, she and Lorena run Makaua as "firm believers in giving your 100% everyday, so we try to live like this. Working with artisans, who even though they have a very different life from us, give their all every day too, and are so proud of their work and a job well done. This motivates us."

This summer, NY NOW's "A Night on Broadway" features, SOMETHING ROTTEN! on Monday August 22! This mash-up of 16th Century Shakespeare and 21st Century Broadway tells the story of brothers Nick and Nigel Bottom, two playwrights stuck in the shadow of that

Renaissance rockstar Will Shakespeare. When a soothsayer foretells the next big thing in theatre, the Bottom brothers set out to write the world's very first MUSICAL! With the most singing, the most dancing and the most gut-busting laughs on Broadway, it's something wonderful... something for everyone... It's SOMETHING ROTTEN!, "the funniest musical comedy in at least 400 years" (Time Out New York)! Tickets, normally priced at $149, are specially priced at $99 before August 9th and $109 after August 9th, for NY NOW Market participants. St. James Theatre: 246 West 44th Street (Between 7th and 8th Avenue)

Experience NY

There's one huge benefit to participating in the New York Market – experiencing New York City itself! It's a destination like no other, with new restaurants, shops, and attractions opening every day. Leave some time in your itinerary for some of these buzzworthy spots.

01
Expect delicious dining in a lively yet sophisticated setting at Mario Batali's latest NYC Italian outpost, La Sirena. Sprawling across the plaza level of Chelsea's Maritime Hotel, the indoor-outdoor trattoria serves up "elevated but playful" entrees like Beef Braciolo "Old School" with Broccoli Rabe & Mollica Picante or Brick Pressed Chicken with Chilis, Eggplant & Basil. And don't forget to save room for dolci- elevated interpretations of traditional Italian desserts (think panna cotta and bombolini with a modern twist). lasirena-nyc.com

02
Handmade with love and care from a proprietary recipe, doughnuts at Dough are on New York City's sweet treat A-List. A carefully curated menu features bold flavors like Hibiscus alongside classics like Cinnamon Sugar. Doughnut makers passionately master their craft through a hands-on approach focused on fullness of flavor- doughnuts roll out in small batches throughout the day to ensure freshness. With four locations spanning the city, the one to visit is in Manhattan at 14 West 19th Street for a sneak peek of the doughnut masters at work. doughdoughnuts.com

In 2010, Northern Grade emerged as an experience-oriented, fashion-forward roving marketplace showcasing a diverse selection of brands with one common thread: all are manufactured in the U.S. of A. In late 2015, buoyed by successful popups in over 25 cities, Northern Grade launched a flagship brick-and-mortar store in New York City's Seaport district. The store is home to a mix of menswear, women's apparel, accessories, footwear, art and homegoods representing 80+ American-made brands; most are unavailable elsewhere in NYC. northerngrade.com

04
Buzz in to The Lucky Bee's vibrant dining room for authentic Thai street food. This Lower East Side spot is helmed by executive chef Matty Bennett and partner Rupert Noffs. Belly up to the hawkers' station and experience Bennett's signature 'fresh food philosophy' in tantalizing papaya salad, house-made curries and a menu that leans gluten-free. Grab a Karma Cocktail (made with locally sourced Andrew's Honey) and The Lucky Bee donates $1 to the New York City Beekeepers Association. luckybeenyc.com

05

Housed on Madison Avenue in Marcel Breuer's gleaming Brutalist architectural landmark, The Met Breuer is a new branch of the Metropolitan Museum of Art dedicated to exploring the depth and breadth of The Met's contemporary collection. Through September 4th, visitors get a glimpse at 197 works left unfinished—intentionally or not—by some of history's most masterful artists, those who chose to bend the boundaries between time and space, and between artist and viewer, to create an ever-changing context dependent on the viewer's attention as much as the artist's intention. metmuseum.org/visit/met-breuer

Bringing sleek minimalist design aesthetic to everyday objects, chic wearables and quirky home essentials, Japanese retail giant Muji flung open the doors to the massive MUJI Fifth Avenue, its US flagship store, last November. Comb the aisles to find stationary, skincare, apparel, plants, even luggage—get your goods embroidered at the custom embroidery station, or peruse the essential oils in the Aroma Labo to create your own fragrance blend. A choice destination for those seeking reasonable prices, artistic inspiration, and only-in-New-York experiences. muji.com/us/flagship/fifth-avenue

07

Dubbed as a “luxury boutique minus the luxury attitude,” Twisted Lily caters to anyone with a passion or curiosity for fragrance, whether a novice or a seasoned expert. Enjoy the luxuriously modern yet intimate setting and no-pressure, non-judgmental environment, full of experts to help you connect to fragrance and olfactive art like you never imagined. twistedlily.com

Head to El Museo Del Barrio for a rich exploration of the Latino artistic landscape. On view at El Museo Del Barrio from June 14-November 26 is ANTONIO LOPEZ: Future Funk Fashion. Every facet of iconic fashion illustrator Antonio Lopez (1943-1987) shines through in this daring exhibit of his legendary work. Boldly imagined fantastical fashion. Rarely seen portraits of industry luminaries. Behind-the-scenes photos snapped in underground Paris nightclubs. All with a defiant eye towards exploration of race, gender, and the body through fashion. elmuseo.org

After the staggering success of his confectionary invention, the Cronut™, Chef Dominique Ansel was constantly asked “what’s next?” Dominique Ansel Kitchen answers that question beautifully by introducing the radical concept of a made-to-order bakery. No Cronuts™ here. Instead, marvel at open kitchens showcasing chefs whipping up premium baked goods—savories, like Edamame Avocado Toast, or sweets, like Marcona Almond Lavender Croissant with gin-spiked frangipane—most with the wait time of a standard-issue latte. dominiqueanselkitchen.com

Wood-fired seafood and handcrafted pastas are standouts at Lilia, a Williamsburg hotspot once an autobody, now renovated into an unfussy café helmed by Michelin-starred chef Missy Robbins. Grab a classic Italian cocktail and settle in beneath ceiling-high windows for critic favorites like perfectly al dente malfadine prepared simply with pink peppercorns and Parmegiano, decadent olive oil cake, and flawless grilled clams— all served up in custom ceramic with a side of cheerful hospitality. lilianewyork.com
