Savvy Design Spotlights Global Energy Poverty

MPOWERD launched in 2012 with a lofty aim: eradicating energy poverty in the developing world. How, exactly? By leveraging science and ingenuity to harness the limitless energy of the sun, while tapping into the endless potential of innovative design to mastermind a product embodying the best of all worlds—the Luci light. Multiple solar-charged LEDs power up for hours of bright light, ideal for creating ambience on a patio or poolside (even in the pool!), and a top option for camping or hiking.

Alluring and affordable, ultra lightweight and easy to pack and carry, waterproof and shatterproof—the Luci light is a triumph of modern design and renewable energy.

Power With A Purpose

For the past five years, MPOWERD has deepened its commitment to making a global impact by working with over 300 NGOs to positively influence over 1.5 million lives in countries all over the world. The sustainable business model behind the Luci light empowers those who live in areas without electricity by providing a safe and inexpensive fix to the common problem of energy poverty. Bringing Luci lights to these areas means health clinics can stay open later, children can play or study after dark, families save money on toxic kerosene, and entrepreneurs can extend their working hours.

Designed To Spark Inspiration

Although the Luci Light is distributed via NGOs in areas from Kenya to Kibera, its exemplary design has also landed MPOWERD in Bloomingdales, REI, Ahalife, and plenty of lifestyle and home boutiques. Luci lights even made a cameo appearance in a window display at New York's Guggenheim Museum. And though the focus is on illuminating solutions for energy efficiency and equity, MPOWERD isn't all business- the lights themselves are sleekly attractive. Take it from the team: "Fun fact: the Luci Color has been dubbed a modern-day lava lamp!"

A repeat visitor to NY NOW, MPOWERD is unveiling several exciting new initiatives this year. "This year we're introducing new packaging for all our SKUs, an Artist's Series collection and a STEM collection, making us the first company to develop a product that teaches the young generation about the importance of clean, solar energy."

MPOWERD™

“Not Your Grandmother’s Wallpaper”

What do Queen Latifah, Emeril Lagasse, Bergdorf Goodman, and Nike have in common? All are huge fans of Flavor Paper. Redefining the adage ‘throw it at the wall and see what sticks’ since 2003, the company has transformed the idea of wallpaper by elevating what once was considered just a humble home improvement project to a true art form. Punch up a space with gutsy geometric motifs, psychedelic florals in unexpected color schemes, or cheeky takes on traditional toiles and damasks. With over 150 patterns (both screened by hand and produced digitally) anyone is sure to find a favorite flavor.

Sensing a Pattern

Founder Jon Sherman is no stranger to reinvention. From working in private equity to gigs as a DJ and a private chef, he “lived many lives” before salvaging Flavor Paper from a literal scrap heap. “I rescued the equipment, moved it to New Orleans and taught myself how to make hand-screened wallpaper. The main reason I decided to jump into the wallpaper game was the realization that I had never considered using wallpaper nor had anyone I knew. And I had a very strong dislike of white walls.” He’s been the driving creative force behind Flavor Paper’s retro renaissance ever since. “We love to play off the nostalgia of wallpaper and reinvent the classics with injections of modernity, humor, and wit,” says Sherman, noting that one popular pattern is Brooklyn Toile, which was created with Mike D of the Beastie Boys and Revolver NY- an homage to Brooklyn classics depicting iconic places and faces (think Coney Island and Biggie Smalls). “We also enjoy using combinations of production techniques and materials that are unexpected in the industry and add a unique aesthetic to our work.” This philosophy factors into an astounding array of customization options; a corporate logo can march across a wall in a Mylar masterpiece, while a fanciful cherry print becomes interactive by adding a scratch and sniff scent.

FLAVOR PAPER

Futuristic Takes on Old School Tastes

Peek into the Flavor Lair (Flavor Paper’s Brooklyn headquarters) to check out the future of wallpaper—a future looking bright, bold, and full of soul. August marks Flavor Paper’s first foray into NY NOW, and they’re coming prepared, issuing several standout hand-screened patterns as pre-trimmed, pre-pasted, easily removable eco-friendly wallpapers (dubbed EZ Papes) for the first time. The interior design tastemakers will also debut new wallpaper emerging from an ongoing collaboration Sherman developed with the Andy Warhol Foundation beginning in 2013. “Warhol had created several wallpapers in his career, but none of them were ever commercial releases so this was the first time people would be able to purchase his work as wallpaper. It was right in our wheelhouse and has been an incredibly rewarding and fruitful project that we look forward to continuing to develop and the next release will be at NY NOW!” www.flavorpaper.com

Inspired by Fashion, Infused with Love

Founder Tamar Frenkel-Schechner took a roundabout path to crafting a plethora of pretty things. She graduated from Parsons School of Design in the eighties, then moved to Tel Aviv and plunged into the world of fashion. Her knack for styling and creative direction led to a career as fashion editor for a popular Israel women's magazine. 12 years and "countless fashion editorials and magazine covers" later, Tamar and her family of five found themselves yearning for a change, and they landed in a small Vermont village. "That's when I discovered that I love to craft and started designing and creating jewelry," says Tamar. "I'm self-taught and had to figure everything out on my own which was a challenge but also very interesting." Today, the Nest Pretty Things is a family affair- Tamar's husband manages logistics, while her son, a professional photographer, handles model photography.

From Timeless to Trendy

There's a Nest Pretty Things piece to appeal to just about anyone's aesthetic. Quirky and colorful statement finds abound alongside understated and stylish selections, and notable picks like a brooch or a bobby pin that blur the line between mod and retro. "I don't just have one woman in my mind when I design, I find that thinking on a broad scale really helps and motivates me. I love creating pieces for women of every age," Tamar explains. Top products include her long Bead and Leather Tassel Necklace, which exemplifies the current trend towards all things bohemian, and her whimsical Chandelier Earrings, bold yet lightweight.

Bespoke Beauty in the Big Apple

While Nest Pretty Things comes to NY NOW for the first time this August, it won't be Tamar's first visit to the show. "In the last few years, the wholesale part of our business has really grown and we sell to over 100 shops around the USA and globally. We hope that the show will give us more exposure and take us to a new level. We visited the show this winter and were blown away! So much beauty in one place! We were so delighted we were accepted to the Personal Accessory section and will be surrounded by so many lovely and talented exhibitors." Look for a new line of Tiny Gemstone necklaces, accented with vivid tassels- great for layering or beautiful worn solo. www.nestprettythings.com

Best in Glass

America's Glass City is Toledo, Ohio. A pioneer in glass industry at the turn of the last century, and a leader in the American Studio Glass movement of the 1960's, the city's storied glass history turned another page when Gathered Glassblowing opened in 2012. Friends Adam Goldberg, Eli Lipman, and Mike Stevens teamed up after graduating college to give glass art and design a well-deserved home in a massive 150-year-old warehouse in the heart of downtown Toledo. As Goldberg recalls, "During our last two semesters at school, Mike and I were in Toledo every morning gutting/renovating/building/creating our 5,000 square foot warehouse space and equipment. Our big goal was to be done by the International Glass Art Society Conference being held in Toledo the summer of 2012. And we hit it!"

Space Exploration

The team's aim was to create a space for glassblowing, collaboration, and critique. Ultimately, Gathered evolved to include a gallery and showroom, artist space for rent, and facilities not just for glassblowing but also for metal fab and wood working—truly representing the soul of the American Studio Glass Movement in holistic support of individual artists expressing themselves in glass. The three founders continue to blend artistry and innovation as they push the boundaries of glassblowing, producing stunning glassware using techniques new and old. "I am not interested in making objects or installations that just sit in a case or live in the background. I am inspired by structure and form in nature and civilization," says Goldberg. "I like thinking about why a form has developed (naturally or by design) in order to more perfectly affect its function. In everything that I make, I want to explore harmony. When I make glass I try to harmonize the three inherent qualities that make glass different from any other material: fluidity, transparency, and color."

Reflecting the Past in a Clear Future

Mirroring those intrinsic qualities. Gathered Glassblowing has followed a flow of imagination by expanding into custom lighting and furniture, and thrown their doors wide open to the public for classes, demonstrations, and live music events. Goldberg is looking forward to his second go-round at NY NOW as an opportunity to develop new relationships with buyers and consumers alike, and to discuss adding to their repertoire of breathtaking site-specific glass installations. Gathered is also planning to showcase a few surprises at their booth. "Hint: we're experimenting with the fragility of glass..." Goldberg teases. They'll also showcase a selection of best sellers, like the Wobbling Wine Decanter (playfully named for its whimsical method of aerating wine), a perennial wedding gift with the capacity to fit a full bottle of wine designed in a range of filigrana colors. And as with everything that emerges from Gathered, there will be a tangible and harmonious juxtaposition between time-tested concepts in glass, and visionary techniques that continue Toledo's longstanding tradition of leading in all things glass.

ARTISAN RESOURCE SPOTLIGHT: Salaheddin

Crossing Borders To Foster Lasting Traditions

In 2001, after two years spent studying Arabic in Damascus, Jean-François Vaillant realized that though his home was in France, his heart was pulled towards Syria. In his relatively brief time there, he developed deep and meaningful relationships, particularly the bonds he forged with artisans he met while sipping tea and watching them work in local glass and soap factories. The obvious next step? Building a bridge between cultures by importing a diverse selection of their handicrafts, and introducing the talent he had first encountered in Syria to a wider audience across the world.

Sustaining Hope; Nurturing Creativity

Salaheddin launched in 2004 as a Fair Trade company keeping tradition alive and providing families of artisans the opportunity to earn an income for their rare expertise. More importantly, the company has nurtured craftspeople in a region continually plagued by conflict. Factories that may have closed due to lack of a market can remain productive; in some cases, Vaillant has helped relocate families and production facilities to safe havens. Plus, a focus on reusing materials and minimizing energy consumption means Salaheddin sustains traditional craftsmanship in tandem with sustaining the environment.

Globe Spanning Style Meets Time-Honored Craft

Their flagship products are home goods crafted from 100% recycled glass, mouth blown into objects of the artisans' own design. Intricate pendant lamps echo shades of sea and sand, accented with aged iron frames. Lanterns drenched in glass pearls are crowned with gleaming brass or tin. Glass balls in a vast array of colors are meant to catch the light and the eye. Ornate vases, carafes, and glassware add a tabletop touch of artisanal elegance. And of course, there's the top-selling showstopper, the grapes lamp, evoking bunches of luscious grapes in a light fixture that is equally spectacular as a centerpiece or perched on a side table.

This will be the fourth time Salaheddin has shown at NY NOW, and Vaillant enjoys the show's consistent quality and the prospect of meeting new customers and potential wholesale partners from all over the globe. www.salaheddin.net

Explore New York

There's one huge benefit to participating in the New York Market—experiencing New York City itself! It's a destination like no other, with new restaurants, shops, and attractions opening every day. Leave some time in your itinerary for some of these buzzworthy spots.

01

01 Crave a Cap'n Crunch milkshake? Intrigued by a chic cereal “box set” curated by your favorite athlete or hip hop artist? Or maybe you want a stellar cup of La Colombe coffee alongside a bowl of Apple Jacks doused in hemp milk? Kith Treats deals exclusively in culinary experiences of the cereal variety. With 23 different cereals, 22 different toppings, a soft serve machine, and multiple milk options, the possibilities are endless. After you satisfy your sweet tooth, check out the adjacent sneaker shop for your fashion fix. kithtreats.com

03

03 Cinephiles rejoice! Forget stale popcorn and flat soft drinks. Grab some fried pickles and a Ramos Gin Fizz and make a night of it at Alamo Drafthouse. Enjoy the best of Hollywood, the hippest indie cinema selections, and exclusive themed events, along with delectable eats and a full bar to enhance your theater experience. With top-of-the-line technology and zero tolerance for texting or talking, you'll never want to go back to the cheap seats. drafthouse.com/nyc

03

04 Their elusive burger (only available in limited quantities each day) has landed Raoul's on more than a few Best NYC Burger lists. While that famed specialty has garnered them praise ranging from “classic” to “Platonic ideal” this family-owned French-bistro style spot has been going strong for nearly 50 years with joie de vivre to spare—mostly due to its convivial atmosphere and reliably exquisite menu. If you can't snag their burger try a decadent Sunday brunch plate or the unparalleled steak au poivre. raouls.com

02

02 Step into seven floors of innovative design at abc carpet & home and marvel at a world of exceptional aesthetics for the home. Peruse a carefully selected assortment of handwoven rugs, inventive furniture, and lighting, plus one of the best apothecary selections in the city. The three branded restaurants and weekly special events are also not to be missed. abchome.com

02

After a 2013 Tokyo debut which led to wild success in over 100 locations in Japan, Ikinari brought cutting edge steak to New York City in early 2017. Choice, super thick “J-Steaks” are cut to order, quickly seared to your liking, and served on sizzling platters with your choice of scrumptious sides and signature sauces. Most diners stand up while chowing down on their steaks, making this an entertaining and uniquely communal dining experience. ikinaristeakusa.com

Crowning NoMad’s culinary-driven Park South Hotel, The Roof at Park South remains one of Manhattan’s most beloved rooftops. Try a frozen cocktail by Beverage Director Ted Kilpatrick; signature example the Miami Vice marries the Strawberry Daiquiri (5-year old Barbadian rum with strawberries and a house-made strawberry-demerara syrup) and the Piña Colada (5-year old Barbadian rum, overproof rum, house-made coconut milk syrup and fresh pineapple juice). It pairs perfectly with the upscale light bite menu created by James Beard award-winning chef Tim Cushman. roofatparksouth.com

09

There are tons of stories about how to make it to the top in New York City, but head 70 stories up in Rockefeller Center’s elevator and you’ll at least be guaranteed the best vantage point. Top of the Rock boasts breathtaking 360-degree views of Manhattan’s legendary skyline and Central Park from multiple indoor and outdoor viewing decks. Soak up the surrounding arts and attractions during daylight hours; zoom to the Top after the sun sets to scope out the sparkling city that never sleeps. topoftherocknyc.com

05

06
More interested in how the saison is made than in how the sausage is made? Head to Brooklyn Brewery for an adventure in learning about great beer and a great borough. Started by a stalwart war reporter turned passionate homebrewer, Brooklyn Brewery churned out its first beer-- the legendary Brooklyn Lager-- in the 80’s, built a brewhouse in the 90’s, and has expanded its repertoire and footprint ever since--all while remaining independently owned. On weekends, free tours are offered every half hour; post-tour beers are a steal at only $5 a pint. brooklynbrewery.com

If you like fun, you’ll love the Brooklyn Comedy Festival, which brings a smorgasbord of belly laughs to multiple venues across the borough. A slew of comedians spanning genres galore are featured in multiple events (some free, some ticketed)-- pick from stand-up showcases, improv and sketch shows, short and feature film screenings, panels, parties, and more. Past highlights include sets from Daily Show and SNL regulars. bkcomedyfestival.com

Avoid getting stuck in traffic; forego the hustle and bustle of the underground subway. The brand new NYC Ferry System is revolutionizing the city’s transportation system by taking it to the waterways. A pristine fleet of ultra-efficient aluminum ferries will shuttle riders over 60 nautical miles, affordably connecting the city’s waterfront communities with style and ease. And each ferry is equipped with modern amenities like WiFi, charging stations, and concession stands. ferry.nyc
